

An issue that many music enthusiasts encounter is not being able to play music from simply hearing it

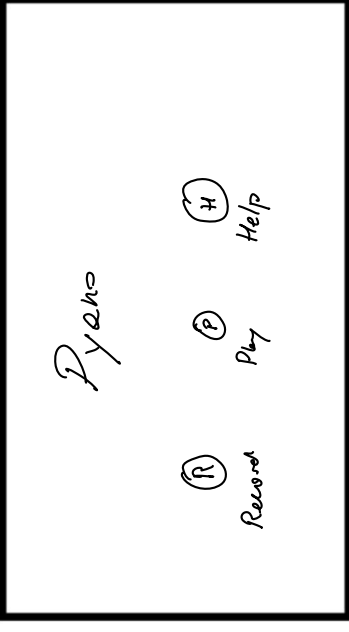

Once a song is recorded it is put into sheet music format. From here it can be saved or edited in one of two ways Pyeno is here to save day! Your simple instrument application for python.

the user can edit the sheet music by clicking on a note and moving it to a new position

The interface is very simple, with a record, play and help button.

The play buttons allow the user to listen to musical compositions or the application reads sheet music